2.0 GLOBAL OVERVIEW	10
Introduction	10
Number of insurable enterprises and individuals	11
Insurable enterprises and individuals are most numerous in the US, India, Japan and France	11
Growth in the healthcare-related services category has slightly outpaced that in medicine and dentistry	12
Market size and segmentation	14
The US accounts for just over two thirds of the global market value	14
... although premiums there have stagnated	14
... in contrast to neighbouring Canada	14
In Sweden, there is a limited need for medical professionals to purchase medical malpractice insurance	15
Over 85% of worldwide premiums are due to mainstream medicine and dentistry	17
In most countries, growth in premiums has been higher than the rise in the eligible entities to insure	19
Medical malpractice generally constitutes a high percentage of total professional indemnity premiums	22
Prevalence of specialist medical malpractice insurers	23
A majority of business is dealt with by specialist underwriters in several countries	23
...with the MPS identifiable as the most international such underwriter	23
Affinity schemes with professional associations	24
Programs for medical malpractice cover are least common in Mexico, Brazil and India	24
...with provision rates varying significantly between medicine and dentistry and healthcare-related services	25
Market forecast	28
The worldwide value of medical malpractice insurance is expected to grow slightly up to 2019	28
...with healthcare-related services forecast to grow more quickly than medicine and dentistry	29
