2.0 REGIONAL OVERVIEW .....	19
Introduction .....	19
Underlying foreign travel markets .....	19
Number of trips .....	19
Across the region as a whole, overseas trips topped 250 million for the first time in 2015 .....	19
... with mainland China and Hong Kong by far the largest source markets .....	19
There is most scope for trips per capita to grow in India and Indonesia .....	21
Residents' wealth does not necessarily reflect their outbound travel habits .....	23
Purpose of trips .....	25
Destination of trips .....	29
Markets for travel insurance and assistance .....	31
Policy numbers and value of premiums .....	31
Across the region as a whole, premiums for stand-alone travel cover were worth some USD 2 billion in 2015 .....	31
China and Japan are by far the largest travel insurance markets among the ten investigated .....	33
... albeit the relatively small Indonesian market has seen the fastest growth in terms of policies .....	33

TRAVEL INSURANCE AND ASSISTANCE IN THE ASIA-PACIFIC REGION

... as well as premiums (in nominal if not real terms).....	34
Awareness and use of annual policies is low but is likely to be rising steadily.....	36
Market metrics.....	39
Premiums per capita are highest by far in Hong Kong and Singapore.....	39
Taiwan and Japan feature the highest number of policies per trip.....	43
... with Japan also having the highest average policy prices.....	43
Distribution through travel trade, transportation and financial organisations.....	46
Provision rates.....	46
Travel agents / tour operators: a majority of these organisations offer travel cover in every country.....	46
Online travel specialists: travel insurance is available from over half of entities in this category.....	47
Airlines: schemes through this channel are relatively widespread, with one notable exception.....	48
Ferry operators: these represent a very limited distribution channel.....	50
Railway operators: a half of the countries surveyed featured partnerships in this category.....	51
Coach operators: travel insurance is rarely available through this channel.....	52
Banking organisations: the enthusiasm of banks varies markedly from one country to another.....	53
Insurance brands: a clear majority of insurance brands sell travel cover in all countries apart from Japan.....	54
Specialised card providers and lenders: this channel is likely to be significant in certain countries.....	55
Operating models.....	56
The majority of stand-alone travel insurance schemes involve a single external underwriter.....	56
Competitive landscape.....	59
On an unweighted basis, Japan and South Korea host the most concentrated markets in the region.....	59
... whereas that of China is relatively fragmented.....	59
When viewed in weighted terms, the markets of most countries appear more concentrated.....	61
... although Malaysia, Singapore and Thailand are exceptions to this general rule.....	62
AIG holds the most distribution partnerships in the region, followed by Chubb and Allianz.....	63
... and then by three Japan-based groups.....	64
Leading competitors.....	65
Only AIG is likely to hold a regional market share of premiums of more than 10%.....	65
... with the market fragmenting quite rapidly thereafter.....	66
... between other international groups and ones focused on a single country.....	66
Groups outside of the top 15 make up between 30% and 40% of the total regional market value.....	67
Forecasts.....	68
Underlying foreign travel markets.....	68
The total number of overseas trips is on track to surge further by 2019.....	68
Markets for travel insurance and assistance.....	70
... driving healthy growth in the region's market for stand-alone travel insurance.....	70
... especially in China, India and Indonesia.....	70
