0.0 EXECUTIVE SUMMARY.....	2
Research background and structure	2
Almost 39 million adult consumers in the UK are members of at least one loyalty scheme	2
Members of non-universal affinity categories tend to earn more than the average across all adults ..	3
Charity credit cards are the most popular form of affinity card org. through not-for-profit entities.....	3
For all but a handful of prods. and servs., football and other sports clubs offer little or no potential....	3
A high number of loyalty scheme members converts into some apparently impressive sales vols.	3
Media affinities can be used to promote a fairly broad array of financial and other prods. or servs. ...	4
Acquisition rates through professional and trade associations are notably high for dental insurance.	4
Over one million personal motor ins. policies are in force through the retailer distribution conduit.....	4
Legal services organised by trade unions attract comparatively high utilisation rates.....	5
The impact of the worksite is particularly high for pensions and different forms of health insurance ..	5
Affinity marketing opportunities are also in evidence for legal, telecoms and utilities services	5
